City of Oakland Prepared for May 1 Events

Marches, Protests and Activities—Some with City Permits and Others without—Planned Throughout Day and Throughout City

Oakland, CA — May 1—often celebrated as International Workers’ Day—has been a significant day of marches and demonstrations of various kinds for many years in Oakland and around the world. The City of Oakland is aware of a number of marches, protests and activities planned in downtown Oakland and throughout the City next Tuesday, May 1; some of the organizers have secured permits, and others have not.

Permitted and Unpermitted Activities

There are several organized demonstrations and activities that we are aware of, many of which will converge around 6 pm at Frank Ogawa Plaza. In addition, there is a California Nurses Association demonstration on Pill Hill.

The City has taken numerous steps to establish contact with the organizers of various May 1st demonstrations in order to facilitate peaceful demonstrations, minimize traffic impacts, and work out any potential problems before they occur.

Occupy Oakland Activities—No permit requested or granted by the City

- Morning commute hours: Potential traffic delays in Uptown, around 19th & Telegraph; Snow Park at 19th & Harrison; and at the foot of Broadway near Jack London Square
- Noontime: Rally at 14th and Broadway
- Throughout the day: Traffic delays and congestion could result from a series of marches, pickets and blockades at unknown locations in Uptown, downtown, and outside of downtown core
- Evening commute hours: Organizers plan to join “March for Dignity and Resistance/Decolonize Oakland” (see below). Temporary traffic and transit impacts could result along the march route.

March for Dignity and Resistance/ Decolonize Oakland —Organizers secured Special Events Permit from OPD

Beginning at 3 pm, rally at Fruitvale Plaza and march to San Antonio Park; rally at San Antonio Park and march to Frank Ogawa Plaza. Demonstration at Frank Ogawa Plaza until 7 pm. Organizers have secured a Special Events Permit from OPD for the march. OPD has worked with the march organizers to determine the specific route of this march to minimize traffic disruptions and keep participants safe along the designated march route. Organizers have secured a use permit for Frank Ogawa Plaza. To date, no sound permit for Frank Ogawa Plaza or park use permit for San Antonio Park has been requested or granted.

City’s Goal: Facilitate Peaceful Expressions, Swiftly Address Criminal Behavior

As we’ve stated many times before, the City of Oakland is committed to facilitating peaceful expressions of free speech rights, and protecting personal safety and property. We will not tolerate destruction or violence. We are asking for the community to come together, look out for one another, and stay safe.

In the event that the demonstrations and protests become unlawful, the Oakland Police Department is prepared to swiftly address any criminal behavior that would damage property or jeopardize the safety of the public or police officers.

Potential Traffic and Transit Impacts

We have planned to facilitate permitted marches to minimize traffic disruption along permitted routes; pedestrian and vehicular safety will be facilitated by OPD. However, additional traffic congestion or delays could occur all day and into the evening as a result of marches or activities that are organized without a permit.

The City will stay in close communication with AC Transit and BART in order to minimize the transit impacts, particularly during commute hours. Traffic and transit conditions could change. Employers, employees, and residents are advised to visit www.511.org or call 511 for up-to-date transition information.

Oakland is Open for Business

City offices and services will remain open on Tuesday, May 1. Staff from the Public Works Agency and other vital City services will work extended hours that day to provide additional community support as necessary. We are not urging businesses to close. Instead, we advise all to use common sense precautions and convey a sense of calm to employees and customers.
