Oakland Police Department Presents its First Annual Open House

Oakland CA ó On Friday, May 4th, the Oakland Police Department (OPD) will open its doors to the community as it presents its first ever Open House Event at the Police Administration Building. Residents of Oakland will have an opportunity to meet the Chief of Police, members of his command staff, and other OPD personnel. “This is a great opportunity for members of the community to get a closer look at who we are and what we do,” said Chief Howard Jordan.

In addition to a performance by the Oakland School for the Arts Jazz Ensemble, activities include a performance by the OPD Motorcycle Drill Team, an art exhibit by the award winning McCullum Youth Court, and special recognition of Mr. Geoff Collins of the Oakland Police Foundation, co-sponsor of the event.

During the event, light refreshments will be served, and free parking will be available in the courthouse parking lot on 6th Street between Washington and Clay streets. The Chief went on to say, “Building lasting relationships with the community is one of my highest priorities, this is just one step in the right direction.”
