Oakland Police 21st Annual Memorial Service

Oakland, CA – Today, the Oakland Police Department will be honoring 53 fallen Oakland officers and their families at its 21st Annual Memorial Service.

Oakland Chief of Police Anne E. Kirkpatrick will make the memorial address and the keynote speaker will be Alameda County's top law enforcement official, Alameda District Attorney Nancy O'Malley.

The solemn event is held in the Police Administration Building foyer, where each officer's name and end-of-watch date are engraved on the black marble wall. Those who come to pay their respects include relatives and friends of the slain officers, members of OPD – from veterans to members of the newest academy class – professional staff, and city and county officials.

Date: Today, May 3, 2017

Start Time: 11:00 a.m.

Location: 455 7th Street, Oakland, CA

Media Partners: We request that you do not park your vehicles in the 400 block of 7th Street.
